Course content

In this course, the focus is on listening comprehension through systematic exercises based on authentic documents (radio clips, spoken news, various audio documents, dealing with diversified subjects); oral production is stimulated by multiple activities. The implementation of the phonetic principles of French (nasal, differences between phonemes, accents, connections, etc.) to the language laboratory is ensured by the recurrence of exercises. Regular and recurrent systematic revision of the basic structures is ensured.

Objectives (and/or specific learning outcomes)

At the end of this teaching unit, a student will have reached level B1.2 on the liabilities side and B1.1 on the active side. He will be able to: understand the essential points of a course taught in French and discover the purpose of communication pursued by the author of the message. understand all types of writing written essentially in a common language, when it comes to understanding the essential points of a text and to grasp the progress of a thought to express a point of view and develop a simple argumentation through a oral speech. write an articulated text simply but correctly on a subject that is familiar to him.

Teaching method and learning activities

Lectures including ex-cathedra lecture, question and answer session and verification of prior learning. Language practice: personal exercises (written exercises and home audio) correction and face-to-face question and answer session, discussions, group lexical expansion exercises, optional personal written work.

Contribution to the teaching profile

The course LANG-B907 is designed as a course for strengthening knowledge in FLE: it aims at the enrichment of grammar structures and basic vocabulary as well as the automation of structures in oral and written.
