Course content

The first part of the course presents the tools of Egyptian archaeological research (bibliographical catalogues, encyclopaedias, etc.), as well as the bases for a critical approach to the available sources (especially electronic resources) for carrying out a personal research; it is completed by a presentation of the main research institutions in Egyptian archaeology. The second part of the course consists of the study of questions seen in HAAR-B200, illustrating methodological issues. Finally, two sessions are devoted to the visit of the Egyptian collection of the Brussels Art and History Museum (Cinquantenaire).

Objectives (and/or specific learning outcomes)

Deepen the knowledge of Ancient Egypt acquired in BA2, by focusing on the methodology of research in Egyptology and a direct contact with the original objects.
