Contenu du cours

This course is divided into four topics, all related to various aspects of globalization. The first part deals with the spatial distribution of economy activity within countries and the role of intranational trade. The second part focuses on the impact of globalization for economic development and inequality. A third part covers the role of supply chains and their implications for contemporaneous trade policy. The last part discusses the market power of large multinationals and how corporate taxation (or the avoidance of) shape their activity.

Objectifs (et/ou acquis d'apprentissages spécifiques)

The objective of the course is to present advanced material on trade policy and some selected topics on globalization.
