Programme objectives

The Master in Interpretation is designed to assist students who have become proficient in two foreign languages and who excel in oral communication, so they can use these abilities to become conference interpreters in international organisations as well as in the private sector.

From the outset, students will be given practical exercises that rely on their general knowledge, language and communication skills, ability to manage stress, and capacity to work quickly, as well as on the effectiveness of their research techniques.

The final examination takes place before a jury, in the presence of professional interpreters and representatives of international institutions.

Programme's added value

Conference interpreters provide interpretation services of the highest quality for clients who require communication of the highest standards.

Such clients include:

- > Private companies
- > Associations
- > Professional conference organisers

Job opportunities

With their cross-disciplinary training, their expertise in language and communication, and their knowledge of international issues and contexts, graduates are able to find employment in a wide range of professional sectors.

Freelance interpreter, staff interpreter, or both.

Master in Interpretation

Focus Professional

Courses in the first term of the Master in Interpretation place emphasis on consecutive interpretation and on advanced French language proficiency. During the second term, emphasis will shift to simultaneous interpretation. An introduction to bi-active interpretation will also be given during the second term.

The content to be interpreted will be drawn from current affairs, with a focus on politics, culture, science, and technology. The programme will also cover subjects that are relevant to the students' work placements.
